

HERBERT MARLER SPOKE TO McGILL CANADIAN CLUB ON URGENT NEEDS OF CANADA

"No Settled Policy Good for Canada" — Increase in Population Needed — Called for Protection of Canadian Traditions, Love of Country and Preservation of Nation — United States Acts as Magnet — Great Resources to be Developed.

"Love of country, preservation of the Canadian nation," was the keynote of the inspiring address delivered by Mr. Herbert Marler M. P., to the Canadian Club of McGill yesterday afternoon.

In his opening remarks Mr. Marler expressed his appreciation of the honor extended to him to lecture at his old Alma Mater, and further stated that his speech would centre around the same advice offered to Commerce students by Sir Arthur Currie and Mr. Beatty at the Commerce Banquet, namely "Think in terms of Canada." "Be tolerant to all," said Mr. Marler, "for everybody's opinion must be considered and see you protect the rights of all minorities."

The noted politician, before expounding his views on what was wrong with Canada, wished it to be clearly understood that his opinions might not be the opinion of others, but that he thought that everybody would agree that his policy could not be very wrong when it was based on "Love of country and preservation of the Canadian nation" and furthering the protection of Canadian traditions.

Mr. Marler said that some would say "Can't we go ahead in the future as we have in the past?" I am not a pessimist," he continued, but this country has great difficulties. The reasons for these dangers are that Canada's population has decreased and that her debts have increased. The Railway debt is one of Canada's heaviest burdens, but the gross debt, both the consolidated and the railway debt is enormous. "If you further examine the expenditure of Canada, you will find that the expenditure outside of the railways, keeps pace with increasing revenue. The railway debt is burdening the country. How can railways be made by getting more people in the country?"

The speaker further stated that people could only be encouraged to come to Canada if we showed them signs of prosperity. He then showed his audience a map of the Dominion, showing its vast size, and pointing out that each section has varied industries and populations. Manufacturers in the Maritime provinces could not survive without moderate protective tariffs. One retired policy all over the country would be impossible, owing to the varied industries of her separate provinces.

"We need greater toleration and give and take in order to have confederation hold together." If this was followed out sincerely, Mr. Marler thought it might be a solution to the difficulty. But is it possible to have policies which are economically sound in a vast country? Unless products of the middle west can get a nearer market they cannot survive. Further, railway rates are lower in Canada than in the United States, but as the speaker stated the United States has a market and Canada has not.

Although our rates are lower than the United States, they must be made still lower, even if it means a loss to the railways, in order to give a market. "This policy is not economical," said Mr. Marler, "but it is the basis for increase of population."

The point of increase of population was stressed very clearly and with much consideration, as Mr. Marler felt that increase of population must be secured at any cost. From about 1900 to 1920 a large amount of money was spent by the Dominion on immigration, but it was really money wasted, as there are alarming statistics showing emigration from this country to the States. "If we can't keep them what good is it?" In order to set off this emigration question, lesser rates and more population is needed. Two billions have been spent on railways in this country, and the only way to make them pay is to have more people to use them.

There are more diversities of industries in Canada than in any other place in the world, but they are undeveloped, and people cannot make money in Canada, and the United States acts as a magnet.

Because of the distance between the west and the east parliamentarians from the former say they can't afford a tariff, while the latter wants it. "No man wants it but to industries of the east a certain tariff is necessary. We reply to the west, 'we do not need lesser transportation rates'."

In his closing remarks Mr. Marler stated that there was no reason for worry. In his own words, "There is no question of the country going under, but we have resources to be developed, and in order to do this the population must increase, and loyalty and co-operation amongst the youth of Canada is needed to make this possible. Then the debt will decrease. 'Think in terms of Canada' were the closing words of Mr. Marler's brilliant oration."

A vote of thanks was proposed, and the president, Grant Glasco, asked that it be taken standing by the large and enthusiastic gathering that had the privilege of hearing this distinguished graduate of McGill.

RED AND WHITE REVUE DEVELOPS

Great Diversity of Entertainment Featured

One of the outstanding charms of the 1925 Red and White Revue, to be presented next month, is that it contains a generous diversity of entertainment. Among the offerings of the show are those which are sure to appeal to each type of theatre-goer, whether his tendency be towards burlesque, farce, musical comedy, drama or musical entertainment. At the same time dances, choruses and plenty of music provide for the continuity of the entire performance.

The first act of the Revue presents to the audience that sparkling newspaper drama "Black Pearls," and will commend itself to the most fastidious critic. Later a farce entitled "The Infernal Sex Angle" is calculated to send the house into shrieks of merriment. In addition, Willard Crocker has many musical numbers of exceptionally high quality. Solo and step dances lead up to the "piece de resistance" — a romantic burlesque comprising two scenes. The first of these is laid on the Mediterranean Sea, and the second takes the audience to Algiers. No expense has been spared in providing gorgeous costumes and interpretive scenic effects in order to produce an Oriental atmosphere. The music in itself, containing as it does, many original songs, suggests a setting influenced strongly by the Orient. Close upon exciting climax the performance is brought to a sensational conclusion by a "grande finale," which will eclipse anything of the same nature presented in Montreal within recent years.

On Friday evening the inter-collegiate debates will take place when McGill will meet the Toronto team at Strathcona hall here, while at the same time at Kingston the other McGill team will meet the Queen's men. "Resolved that Canada should adopt an immigration policy of drastic restrictions similar in principle to that enforced by the United States" is the resolution and at McGill R. J. Smith and A. Norman James will uphold the affirmative, while at Queen's, S. Schwilkeberg and W. Goforth will uphold the negative. The Queen's men have been announced and the University will be represented by E. R. Smith and R. O. MacFarlane, both being debaters of note, having distinguished themselves on previous occasions for their college.

The McGill men, chosen at the recent eliminations, are conceded to be some of the strongest representatives that have ever been put into the field and it is expected that the inter-collegiate debates this year will be fought in a most keen manner.

The students are urged by the executive of the Literary and Debating society to be on hand and support the local team in the scheduled verbal battle with Toronto.

DR. MCGINNIS TO BE AT ST. PATRICK'S

Lenten Preaching For Catholic Students

Although two sermons only have been heard of the series of seven to be delivered by Dr. McGinnis at St. Patrick's Church, he sufficiently revealed himself to his large audience last Sunday to justify an appreciation and a description of the eminent preacher.

Father McGinnis has in his intellectual make-up and his pulpit presence a great many of the traits that have been admired in other Lenten preachers that have come to this city. There is in his well reasoned, clear simple exposition of Catholic belief more than one trait that pleasingly recalls Father John Ruland, his personal friend and fellow pastor of Brooklyn, N. Y. One might go on discovering in Dr. McGinnis innumerable pleasing "resemblances" that attract and captivate. He is original, different and "quite himself" in his rich and sympathetic personality, so that the Catholic students of McGill who will hear him from tomorrow evening until Sunday morning next will be particularly favoured.

The special exercises for the Catholic students will be held at St. Patrick's Church, 278 Dorchester Street West, tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m.

DR. IRA A. MACKAY LECTURES TO-DAY

Subject will be "The Present Impasse of Democracy"

This afternoon at five o'clock in the Royal Victoria College, Dr. Ira A. Mackay will deliver an address on "The Present Impasse of Democracy." Dr. Ira A. Mackay, the Acting Dean of the Faculty of Arts, is widely known as a lecturer of interest, and has been much in demand as a speaker in Canadian university circles. The lecture which he will deliver to-day will deal in a very unique manner with a subject which is foremost in the minds of many modern thinkers. In both its social and political aspects.

Sir Andrew Macphail, with whose name are associated many literary achievements, will occupy the chair. This lecture will conclude the annual series held under the auspices of the School for Social Workers, which various aspects of intensely interesting modern social problems are dealt with by research students and some of the most eminent authorities on the continent. The students are admitted free to the lecture.

WILL NOT CHANGE UNIVERSAL FEE

Athletic Manager Makes Statement on Athletics

In an interview last evening, Basil MacLean, President of the Students' Council stated that the Council does not contemplate making any change in the universal fee this year.

With regard to this matter Major D. S. Forbes Athletic Manager has submitted the following information to the President of the Council.

Rugby: "Although very little difference was made in the attendance at the football matches, we are now able to distinguish between students and outside general admission, and with the experience we had last year are thus in a better position to make special reservations for student rooters."

Hockey: "The attendance at the hockey matches has been on an average of five times as big as it was last year, this despite the fact that the team has not improved its record."

Basketball: "The Basketball matches have been to capacity houses. As it is a case of admission paid in advance, we are now enabled to give guarantees with security and have thus been able to bring three American teams here, which would not have been possible under the old system, namely Dartmouth Hockey team, Massachusetts Institute of Technology Boxing Team and University of Vermont Basketball team. This is bound to have a very beneficial international collegiate effect."

McGILL VICTORIOUS OVER UNIV. OF MONTREAL MAKES FINAL MATCH NECESSARY

Fast Pace Kept up Throughout — Abbott, O'Donnell, Hayes, McMahon and Mickles Score for McGill — Gauthier Tallies for U. of M. — Many Penalties Handed Out — Both Goalers Kept Busy — Fairly Good Crowd.

By defeating the Université de Montréal by a score of 5-1 last night on Cameron, McGill tied for the Beaubien Cup.

The game was witnessed by a fairly large crowd, considering the weather and was one of the most exciting seen this season.

The winners had the edge of the play throughout but the Frenchmen gave Cameron some very trying periods when goals seemed sure. Cameron and Beaumont both had about fifty shots, most of Cameron's coming from the stick of Emard who with Beaumont made up the outstanding pair for the losers.

The McGill defence was in splendid form and stopped most of their opponent's attacks. In the last period Bell put in some very nice work while Mickles and Abbott played consistently throughout. There were lots of penalties handed out as the game tended to become rather rough especially in the second period.

The first period started out pretty fast and it looked as if the game was going to be rough. Lapointe and Poirier both received penalties for tripping. Mickles, Hayes and Abbott did nicely. Hayes showing good speed while Abbott did some nice ducking. The U. of M. players showed lots of pertinacity but there was a very noticeable lack of combination on their part. Beaumont had some hard work at his nets and he had several very close shaves. Abbott scored just before the gong after a short pass from Mickles.

The second period exhibited some pretty fast hockey which was pretty rough at times. McGill kept Beaumont from doing much but Emard kept the boys busy and gave Cameron some very unpleasant moments. O'Donnell scored early in the period from a very near side shot. He tried several times and nearly put in another. Gauthier greatly raised the Frenchmen's spirits when he tallied into the corner of Cameron's net. Shortly afterwards Buz Hayes rushed up alone and poked the rubber through Beaumont's legs from a rebound.

The East Enders did their best to win in the last period playing four men up most of the time. Gauthier succeeded in putting one past Cameron but McMahon and Mickles both scored on Beaumont. Although well ahead, the Red and White squad never slackened and kept up the fast clip till the last. Beaumont seemed to show up much more in the last period.

The game lived up with the Frenchmen trying to even the score. Gauthier took a long shot Hayes scored for McGill off a rebound after a single rush. McMahon went off. Lapointe took several shots from centre ice. Mickles rushed in on Beaumont who stopped him. Bell rushed up. Emard kept Cameron busy for a few minutes. End of Second Period McGill 3—U. of M. 1

NO ATHLETIC LEVY FOR R.V.C. STUDENTS

Vote Taken at R. V. C. Undergraduate Society Yesterday

Women students at McGill will not pay the five dollar athletic levy, but will buy rooter's tickets for games as they have done during the past year. This was the result of a vote taken at the R. V. C. Undergraduate Society yesterday.

After some discussion it was decided that women students would not use a sufficient number of the tickets to warrant their paying the athletic fee. Many of the events to which the tickets give admission would have no interest for the women, so it was decided that it would be wiser for them to follow last year's plan and buy rooter's tickets only for the games which they wish to attend.

Miss Frances Secord urged everyone to buy tickets for the Red and White Revue at once, since it would not be possible to obtain students' rates after Saturday. Tickets can be bought from class representatives any time this week.

It was announced that $161.00 had been collected for the Fund for the unemployed.

It was moved and seconded that a letter be written Miss Hurlbatt thanking her for the book she so kindly sent the Undergraduate Society.

At the close of the meeting appreciation was expressed by the

DECORATION SCHEME FOR ALMA MATER

To be a Departure From Previous Years

REDUCED PRICES

Committee Hard at Work Arranging Novelty—Union Will be Harmony of Colour

Arrangements are nearly completed for the final event on the social calendar, the Alma Mater, the final decoration on scheme having been decided upon at a meeting of the committee yesterday afternoon. The ground floor of the Union will be decorated in formal style, but the next two floors will be transformed so that the oldest habitues of the Union will not recognize it. As a new departure it has been decided to have the program design, the favors, and even the supper in keeping with the scheme of decorations.

TO DEBATE ARTS UNDER SOCIALISM

Campbell, MacLeod and Alexander Meet Literary Society To-night

IMPORTANT EVENT

Is First Outside Debate This Season—At Engineering Institute At 8:15

The Arts under Socialism is the problem to be discussed this evening when the team representing the Literary and Debating Society will meet three representatives of the St. James Literary Society at the Engineering Institute, Mansfield Street, in the first important debate of this season. Fast on the heels of this event will come the intercollegiate debates to be held next Friday when Toronto will come to McGill, and McGill will go to Queen's.

The resolution this evening is worded "Resolved that the arts will flourish in a socialistic state." McGill will be represented by E. E. Campbell, E. MacLeod and B. M. Alexander, while the St. James Literary Society have named John Beard, their vice-president John Duthie and Francis Hankin, past presidents of the society to represent them. McGill is to uphold the negative. This will be the first time the two will have met.

The debaters from McGill were chosen last week.

MR. MARLER'S SPEECH.

Mr. H. M. Marler, M.P., speaking at the McGill Canadian Club meeting yesterday, amply demonstrated his ability to analyze the problems which the Dominion has to face, and is facing, at the present time. He brought to his subject a superior knowledge of the particular difficulties of each section of Canada from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, that tend to undermine the solid foundations of Confederation, to estrange the parts of the country which are separated by geographical peculiarities.

Mr. Marler divided Canada into four sections: The Maritime Provinces, where fishing, mining and farming are the main industries; the eastern manufacturing section composed of Ontario and Quebec; the purely agricultural section of the West; and British Columbia. How are legislators to work out a system of moderate tariffs that will serve the best interests and meet with the approval of all four divisions in this vast stretch of territory? Mr. Marler contends that such a system cannot be devised. A moderate tariff is essential to the existence of the great industrial section of Ontario and Quebec. The West, which is adapted solely to agriculture, would benefit materially from unrestricted trade with the Republic to the south, but in gaining free trade the interests of the industries in the east would be sacrificed where competition with lower-priced American products would mean certain death to Canadian industries.

"Preservation of Canada," Mr. Marler stated, should be the ideal of every citizen. By thinking in terms of Canada the people would be willing to sacrifice benefits to be derived from policies adaptable to small sections when the Dominion as a whole would suffer from the adoption of those policies.

The urgent necessity of increased population was a point which Mr. Marler particularly stressed. The increased prosperity of the Dominion depends on satisfactory remedies being found for under-population. The country is burdened with a railway mileage far out of proportion with the population, with the consequent evil of accumulating national debt. To induce immigrants to settle in Canada and to prevent them when they are here from filtering into the United States, it is necessary to assure them a decent livelihood. He advocated lowering of freight rates even at the expense of increasing the national debt. High transportation cost would cease to be a deterrent to the prosperity of the agricultural section in the west. The country would prosper and could then offer reasonable inducement to immigrants to settle here. Increased population would follow and greater division of debt and lower taxation would inevitably result.

The policy Mr. Marler advocates is based on sound and mature judgment, and a keen insight into the pressing needs of the Dominion. His message is worthy of consideration of every student who will eventually become a responsible citizen of the Canadian nation.

CONDENSED COMMENT.

The pros and cons of the socialist question will be considered when a debating team from McGill will compete in a verbal battle with opponents from the St. James Literary Society to-night in the Engineering Institute. The final Intercollegiate debates will be held this week-end, and will culminate the activities of the Literary and Debating Society for this session.

DR. FABER SPOKE "ON PYROTECHNICS"

Discussed History and Importance in Last War

Dr. Faber, the well known authority on "Pyrotechnics" delivered a most interesting lecture in the Chemistry Building yesterday afternoon, before the Physical and Chemical Society.

Dr. Faber stressed the part which pyrotechnics have played in history. Through pyrotechnics the Christians of early times ward off the attacks of the pagan forces and destroyed their fleets by means of Greek fire when they endeavored to cross the Bosphorus.

"Although," Dr. Faber declared "a great deal of the science of pyrotechnics had been lost, it was revived by the Great War. If their had been another drive, it would have been made totally by night and with the use of flares." The speaker then explained the chemical composition of some of the flares and answered questions put to him by the audience. A vote of thanks was proposed by Dr. Rutan and heartily approved of by the meeting.

Four Soloists Scored Success On Sunday At Second Musicale

The second Sunday musicale of the McGill Music club held Sunday afternoon proved to be quite as successful as the first which was held several weeks ago. The four soloists who provided the programme presented numbers varying from the colorful works of Debussy to the singing melodies of Mendelssohn. Miss Mary Izard, prominent Montreal violinist was one of the outstanding contributors to the musicale, while Mrs. William Ewing, the other contributing artist rendered three vocal solos in a most pleasing manner. The two McGill performers, Miss Louise Hurd and Willis Malone chose difficult numbers for presentation and acquitted themselves excellently.

The masculine, firm, playing of Miss Izard and the careful interpretation of the four numbers which differed so widely in character were well received by the audience. Her violin had a fine singing tone and if anything, she was at her best in Weinawski's famous work "Legende" an exceedingly difficult number calling for flawless technique and a most careful handling of the instrument. A Negro spiritual "Many Many Thousands Gone" was sweetly played, while Chopin's Nocturne in E flat and Brahms' famous waltz, were the other two numbers which Miss Izard presented.

Willis Malone played two of Debussy's Arabesques, and a Chopin Waltz in A flat. Miss Hurd chose as her numbers a Prelude by Mendelssohn and a Romance by Schumann.

Three short songs by modern British composers were sung by Mrs. William Ewing.

Mrs. Ballantyne and Miss Gurd were the accompanists for Miss Izard and Mrs. Ewing.

MCGILL'S MASCOT CAPTURES TROPHY

Jerry Proves His Worth as Sled Dog

At the recent dog contest held in Quebec in commemoration of the heroic huskies which saved the situation at Nome, Alaska, during the recent epidemic, Jerry, the beautiful Alaskan husky, mascot of McGill, captured the cup awarded by Miss Pratt, of Newton, Mass. The trophy was awarded for the best type of sled dog entered in the Eastern International Dog Sled Derby, held at Quebec last Saturday. Six grizzled musher in their picturesque outfits and as many fine dogs face the judges, every man and beast looking as if he had stepped out of a book by Service or Jack London.

Competition was keen and the Darkey the Clarke entry took second place getting the reserve ribbon and the money prize going with it. The judging between Jerry and Darkey was so close that it took the judges, Dr. H. A. Souther, Boston Mass., H. I. Sutton, Chicago, and Dr. Henri Gauvin, Quebec, over twenty minutes to come to a decision. Feet muscle, type, size weight and appearance were the points considered. The dogs themselves obviously understood what was going on and were on their best behavior, placidly wagging their tails.

Alaskan husky owned by the McCombe brothers, won prize as best type of sled dog at Quebec Derby.

C.O.T.C. HELD EXCURSION TO SHAWBRIDGE

Knowledge Of Military Tactics Apparent.

NO CASUALTIES

Hail and Snow Make Operations Difficult

Thirty five officers and other ranks of the McGill C. O. T. C. stayed at the Boys' Farm at Shawbridge over the weekend, and spent a most satisfactory two days practicing attacking in the surrounding country. The Boys' Farm extended the same bountiful hospitality for which they have become justly famous.

The first day there was hail alternating with rain. During the afternoon two exercises in "The Platoon in Attack on hidden Machine Gun positions" were carried out. The principal criticisms were that one platoon had its men too much bunched, so that all could have been destroyed by one burst of fire. In the case of neither platoon was proper covering fire given. Whenever one section advances, one or two of the remaining sections should give covering in order to distract the attention of the troops in the point being attacked. Generally, a fair knowledge of the value of flanking attacks was shown.

On the morning of Sunday, on which day the weather was perfect, the force was divided into two skeleton forces, one representing a company in an outpost position covering troops lying at rest in Shawbridge. The other force represented a company working down the valleys trying to penetrate through the picket line of the outpost company. There were other troops to right and left of the McGill outpost company, just as there were other troops to right and left of the attacking company. In the short time allowed for the officer in charge to choose his picket line positions for sentry groups, reserves etc. he did very well, but on this occasion the attack was cleverly planned. There was a faint attack against the picket line followed by another attack on the left of the picket line. This distracted the defenders' attention quite to their left, whilst a real attack penetrated the extreme right, and was through the picket line before the defenders were really aware of it. The main criticism with regard to the attacking troops was that they omitted to send back word to the company commander as to what was proceeding in front.

Again, with regard to the defenders, the instructions were that the picket line was to be held to the last, but nevertheless, one picket at least, retired without any instructions from an umpire. It was sent back.

In the afternoon, the rank and file were divided into syndicates, each of which was put under an officer. Each syndicate then went over the same ground and chose its own outpost position. Each syndicate prepared a sketch map, and these were discussed in the train coming back.

Everybody returned safely, the only casualties being three bundles of skis, which some rather selfish civilian skiers throw off a truck to make place for their own, whilst the Q. M. and his men were busy getting blankets and cases of rifles on to the train. Everybody returned home feeling very fit and thoroughly tired out.

Ancient Wigs Well Made

As far back as the time of the Egyptians, women were not content with the crowning glory nature supplied. One of America's leading wigmakers tells of examining a wig taken from the sarcophagus of an Egyptian mummy. That wig was so wondrously wrought that one must conclude the art was highly developed in the civilization of the ancients.—Ex.

3rd Period

Bell nearly scored on a pass from Mickles. Emard and Lapointe rushed the McGill Goale but Hayes blocked. Abbott shot and Bell nearly scored a rebound. Bell rushed down but Gauthier got the puck. Lapointe skated down but shot wildly. Poirier and McMahon went to the cage. After several rushes back and forth, Emard shot alone. Emard nearly scored on a rebound. The U. of M. forwards attacked very strenuously. Hayes and Bell almost scored in some very close play. McMahon was benched. The Frenchmen were trying hard to score with four men up. Beaubien tripped Wayland and went off. O'Donnell rushed. Abbott and Mickles were checked by Emard. McMahon scored into the top corner of the Frenchmen's goal. McGill—4—U. of M. 1. Emard rushed down but couldn't score. Emard shot. Mickles and Abbott rushed up and the former scored. End of game McGill 5—U. of M. 1. The teams lined up as follows:—

suitably attired for the occasion. Work will commence next Monday and will be continued till six p.m. March 6th. Gordie Hughes and Ian Archibald are most enthusiastic about their latest plan, and guarantee the most novel and astounding palace of dancing ever seen in Montreal.

The committee take great pleasure in announcing that the following ladies will act as patronesses:—

Lady Currie, Mrs. C. F. Garside, Mrs. I. A. McKay, Mrs. H. M. MacKay, Mrs. C. F. Martin, Mrs. H. A. Smith and Mrs. A. W. Thornton.

The subscription list opens on Thursday at one p.m. at the Union. As previously stated prices have been reduced for this year's Alma Mater, subscribers being obliged to part with only five dollars.

The demand this year is extraordinarily great, so no reservations can be made and no tickets held.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO MEET TO-NIGHT

The historical society will meet to-night at the home of H. E. Bydwell 259 Kensington Avenue at eight o'clock.

This meeting will be interesting as the two papers will deal with the frozen North. T. M. Gordon will speak on "The Story of Alaska" and J. G. Brierly will discuss "The Canadian North."

All members of the historical society are invited to attend this meeting and judging from the high standard of the talks at the previous meetings they will miss something if they do not attend.

In order to search Kensington Ave. members should board a west bound Windsor car which will carry them there.

M.S.P.E. WIN HOCKEY FROM MACDONALD

Gain Score Of 9-0 Despite Slow Condition Of Ice

The city league game between the M. S. P. E. and Macdonald was played on Saturday Feb. 21st, and ended 9-0 in favor of the M. S. P. E.

Both teams played a very strenuous and tiring game. The snow, which completely covered the rink in the hollow, made it extremely difficult for either team to carry the puck. During the first period, the play was faster and better than in the remaining two periods owing to the fact that the ice was fairly free from snow. In the last two periods the puck was followed by the players only with considerable difficulty. The M. S. P. E. team showed combination superior to that of their opponents which resulted in their winning the game by a score of 9-0.

The line up of the teams was as follows:—

RECENT SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH WORK AT MCGILL

Miss Chataway is devoting herself to a study of the addition of sulphur to unsaturated organic substances in general, and in particular to those which give rise to gels as a result of the addition. This work involves a study of the production of the so-called vulcanized oils, a class of products manufactured in rather considerable tonnage.

It has long been known that free phytosterols (complex, plan alcohols analogous to the cholesterol of the animal organism) occur in many plants, but only within the last ten years has it been recognized that compounds of such sterols with glucose are very widely distributed in vegetable products (in wheat, rhabarbar, rubber, etc.). These substances are insoluble in all the usual laboratory solvents, but it has been observed at McGill that they will dissolve and give gels in fatty acids and a number of other liquids. Mr. C. R. West is embarking on a needed study of this class of substances. Certain observations made by Dr. Whitby in connection with the very sensitive, new tests for sterols, which he published two years ago, and which have become known to workers in the field of sterols as the Whitby reactions, have recently been put to valuable use by Dr. R. J. Anderson, of the New York Agricultural Experimental Station. In connection with the isolation of dihydrosterols in the course of the chemical examination of corn and wheat endosperm, Dr. Whitby's name has also become associated with a peculiar phenomenon, which he observed in the coagulation of rubber milk, and which has become known in the literature as "Whitby gap."

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
The letter which appeared in yesterday's issue of the Daily by Mr.
Mackenzie is one which requires very little effort in answering.

He mentions something about theatre, 1000 seats, statement of last year's profits, student sentiment psychology of the theatre going public etc. all of which will be answered in due course.

In the first place, why the change from the St. Denis to His Majesty's Without considering the change from the financial point of view, surely
Mr. Mackenzie can see the advantages of the one theatre over the other. Those taking part in the Revue were eager for the change;
the members of the Committee in charge of disposing of tickets were eager for a change for reasons which are quite obvious, and I am sure the students themselves were not adverse to the arrangement. Again, considering the matter from the financial point of view. This would no doubt appeal to Mr. Mackenzie. He mentions something about the rent for His Majesty's being double that of last year for the St. Denis. He has been grossly misinformed by someone. Taking the rent of the theatre on a seat basis, we are paying 15.6 cents per seat this year as compared to 21 cents last year and we have 1646 more seats available this year.
Mr. Mackenzie has the idea that students are being asked to pay more this year for the privilege of sitting in a gilt-edged, plush-covered seat.

His assumption apparently is that the "Red and White Revue" has been turned into a limited stock company
for the purpose of making the dollar earn the largest dividend. We reject the delusion. When the General Committee first met last November we concluded that our object should be to produce a show which would be within the financial limits of every student.

We had two alternatives—first to produce a show of last year's standard—in other words, following the path of least resistance or secondly of adopting a more ambitious policy such as we have done. The "Revue" idea has meant not only ten times
the amount of work in organizing and producing the show but has, of course, increased our expenses over those of last year. Were we justified in making the change? Mr. Mackenzie may have the privilege of answering this after he has seen the Revue of 1925.

Up to the present, the Revue has meant about four months work by a Committee divided into about seven or eight sub-committees and endless hard work, time and trouble for those actually taking part in the show, since the rehearsals commenced promptly after the mid-year exams, which fact has done away with the last minute interferences with scholastic work.

When we consider that the bulk of our profit will be derived from the sale of tickets to the public at the usual theatre prices, it seems obvious that we are justified in showing a profit for this effort.

I am, Yours truly,

R. E. DINGMAN
Gen. Mgr.

Red and White Revue

The Editor,
McGill Daily

Dear Sir—I should like through your columns to be one of the number who would willingly answer John Mackenzie, being but an appreciative observer of last year's Revue and not on the committee, I cannot submit statistics. The phrase concerning the so-called exploitation of student sentiment is a dangerous one; in a matter of this kind, the foremost element in student sentiment is a desire to see McGill as a unit successful in this particular type of non-academic activity, together with a pride in the obvious progress in organization, production and dramatic prowess, since the establishment of the McGill Theatre Night.

The three largest colleges in the eastern states all have their dramatic clubs—The Princeton Triangle Show,
The Hasty Pudding Club and others.
The Military Academy has its "Hundredth Night," the state universities have dramatic clubs and the women's colleges their Philalethias Societies that rank in importance with Students' athletic and Christian associations.

It seems only fitting that a university as large as McGill where both sexes are represented, should undertake a dramatic venture of some proportions, and it seems that the Red and White Revue of 1925 will assume these proportions, and the students themselves should realize it worth the price of admission. To the public the Revue is proving itself of equal monetary value as the usual run of shows at His Majesty's excluding of course the Shakespeare productions and surely the students will be willing to sacrifice two evenings' entertainment at the Capitol and one afternoon at the Strand for the best orchestra seat at their own production, I remain.

Yours truly,

DR. J. C. McLENNAN TORONTO PHYSICIST

Will Lecture On "Rutherford
and The Atom"

Dr. J. C. McLennan, Professor of Physics at the University of Toronto, will lecture on "Rutherford and the Atom" in the Macdonald Physics
Building at 8:30 p.m. to-morrow night.

This lecture is one of the interesting series of Extension Lectures on Modern Physics, several of which have been already given. Ticket-holders are requested to be in their places before 8:25. The public will be admitted between 8:25 and 8:30. The price of admission is 75 cents.

It is well-known that Dr. McLen-nan is a friend of Sir Ernest Rutherford and that he has worked with him and also on somewhat similar lines in the investigation of the properties of the atom.

sen at the recent eliminations in which they, along with four others were finally named for the Literary and Debating Society's debates. Campbell is a new man at McGill, having registered in Law '27. While he has not spoken at any of the "Lit" functions his splendid presentation and discussion at the eliminations easily won him a place on the team. E. MacLeod, spoken on several occasions at the Mock Parliament and has in each case distinguished himself. He spoke for Mc-Gill also when the first "Mock" was broadcast several weeks ago. Mac-Leod is prominently connected with the "Daily" being a member of the News

Board. B. M. Alexander, of Arts '28, has shown himself to be one of the leading speakers of that year, and his maiden speeches on the Parliament floor as well as his addresses at other University functions have proven him to be ably qualified to represent Mc-Gill to-night.

The event is set for 8:15 sharp and all students are urged to be present at what is conceded to be one of the outstanding debating encounters which McGill is participating. The judges are Prof. T. H. Brunt of Macdonald College, Rev. James Smythe L. L. D., of the Wesleyan College and John Scott of the "Gazette."

CONSUMPTION OF CANDY AT COLLEGE CONFECTION COUNT- ERS IS CONSTANT

"One a minute" is the approximate
sale of candy at local candy counters.
The men buy more gum and lifesavers, while the co-ed satisfies her sweet tooth in selecting one of the varied collection of bar candies.

"The sale is fiftyfifty as far as sex is concerned, say the saleswomen, in pite of the recent announcement made by the National Confectioners' Association of New York that "A survey of the trade shows men consume 55 percent of the candy manufactured
and women and children the rest."

An enlightening report, but evidently not true of the college student,
for Berkeley candy shops echo campus statistics, confirming sales to be even. They add that most of the expensive boxed candy sold is purchased by men, though possibly not meant for their own consumption, while the women buy theirs in bulk.

It might be interesting to get a food analyst's version of the brain-developing powers of candy. However, brain food or no, its popularity among college students seems to be undisputed.—Daily Cal.

LARGE DENTAL CLINIC AT OHIO U.

The large dental section of Ohio State University, which forms part of the New Medical Building, has just been opened. The operative clinic contains sixty-five chairs, and is so placed that the students can have a maximum of light. One chair and a rest-room comprise the anaesthetic
department, with two chairs for extraction in an adjoining room. There is also a large X-ray room with a developing compartment. Crown and bridge work is done in a large room containing nineteen chairs. The students manufacture their own bridges,
etc. A system whereby students' dental tools are put in a large cabinet through which steam is continually passing, will provide for thorough sanitation.

Men's faults are many.
Women have only two—Everything they say, and Everything they do.—Orange and White.

Marion: "What would you give for a voice like mine?"
Burt: "Chloroform."—Orange and White.

"Why should Jack Dempsey be World's Champion?"

"Well, who's got a better right?"— Orange and White.

'No Smoking' Is Now Slogan Of Campus Women

"Shall it be a smoker or a tea?"
That this would be the question our women will have to settle a few years
from now was the fear of the University a few years ago, but now it seems to be the general opinion of the women in the halls that it would prove a total loss for the book stores to lay in a supply of violet-scented or satin-tipped Camels.

Three years ago the moral welfare of our women was feared for, and a law was made by which smoking was prohibited in all the women's dormitories, although no penalty was named for disregard of the rule. This was quite lenient, since at Mt. Holyoke the penalty for first offense is suspension. The law has not been enforced as a rule, and the women have shown that they do not add a "hickory stick"
to make them keep up the good name of the University of Chicago women
since the great majority do not smoke, although they have no objections to their fellow hall-mates doing so, according to the head of one of the halls.
In one of the halls a bitter war was waged, starting with a poster reading:

THERE SHALL BE NO SMOKING
ON THIS FLOOR

The next day it was followed up
with another:

THERE SHALL BE NO CARD-
PLAYING ON THIS FLOOR

The poster artists were not to be outdone, so the series were continued
with:

NO LOUD GUM CHEWING WILL BE TOLERATED ON THIS FLOOR

FOR THE GOOD OF THE HEALTH OF THE GIRLS IN GENERAL PLEASE REFRAIN
FROM TELLING RISQUE STOR-IES.

FOR THE COMFORT OF YOUR FELLOW CLASSMATES DO NOT SNOORE.

This baffled the enemy, and no one will dare mention smoking within two floors of the scene now.

At Vassar the students so opposed the law against smoking that they had it repealed by means of their student government, and now a petition has been filed asking a smoking room.
When our women were asked whether they felt that a smoking room was desirable, it was the general rule that they did not approve, since it would be an incentive for the young and innocent freshmen to learn bad habits.
However, they did not feel that a strict law should be made, since women had as much a right to indulge as men. One woman voiced her opinion by saying that she would as soon cook onions as smoke in her room, as far as the odor was concerned.
